We state that we are the Authors of this work and jointly express our willingness to have it published in the journal „Infections of the 21st century” (Zakażenia XXI wieku), and that all the co-authors made the declaration that the work: 1. was not published (in print or electronically) earlier; 2. all the Authors contributed to the creation of the work and no Author that had contributed to its creation was omitted (guest authorship / ghostwriting); 3. the work has not been submitted for publication elsewhere; 4. the materials come from the Authors, neither the work nor its elements (e.g. illustrations, photographs, tables) infringe the copyright of third parties, and if otherwise the responsibility for infringement of such rights rests with the Authors; 5. there is no conflict of interests between the Authors and companies or organisations, and if otherwise (e.g. cooperation in financing), such conflicts should be mentioned; 6. the procedures used were in compliance with the Declaration of Helsinki. In case of reporting a clinical experiment, the authors should state whether they applied procedures in compliance with Ethical Principles for Medical Research Involving Human Subject and principles of Good Clinical Practice; 7. it was conducted showing due regard for the rights of patients and the rights of experimental animals (consent of the ethics committee to the conducting of the trials, respect for and protection of the patient's privacy).

Conflict of interests* / declaration of transparency:

*You should indicate and describe the sources of research financing, the role of the financing organisation and its impact on the content of the paper, if any. All the Authors are obliged to disclose (if applicable) any financial commitments between the Authors and the company that is either the producer of the product presented in the submitted work or its competitor that could be the basis for suspecting a conflict of interests with regard to the Authors of the work. In the declaration of transparency, you should indicate people or institutions that contributed to the creation of the work (including financial contribution in the form of grants, subsidies and subventions) but do not meet the criteria of co-authorship.

All the Authors have read the instructions for the authors of the journal „Infections of the 21st century” (Zakażenia XXI wieku), are familiar with the content of this statement, unanimously agree with its content and confirm that the information above is factually correct.
